

Playful Nature - Thursday 21st May

Each year our school takes part in 'Outdoor Classroom Day' which inspires and celebrates outdoor play and learning. In response to the coronavirus crisis, they have launched 'Playful Nature' instead, inviting everyone to celebrate their connection to the natural world by dressing up in nature on Thursday 21st May! Here are a few ideas for inspiration

- make a nature crown out of leaves, cardboard or twigs
- use a cardboard box and paints to make beautiful butterfly wings
- turn yourself into your favourite animal with a simple mask
- are you a fan of the sun? Brighten up someone's day by dressing in yellow.

If it's possible or you have the space, children could spend time playing outdoors in their creation on the day. Or they could dress up for their daily walk to make people smile. Whatever you do, please share it with us and we may include it in the weekly school newsletter.

Here are some more ideas! You will find even more ideas on pinterest under Nature-themed dress up ideas.
